

Sinclair Broadcasting is the same company who would not air "Politically Incorrect" after one of Bill Mahers comments. They are also the same company who refused to air a nightline segment honoring our fallen soldiers in Iraq. This time however they are trying to directly effect our democracy which I am committed not to let this type of thing happen. It makes no difference which candidate I stand behind, I would still believe that this type of influence by the media is unwarranted and illegal and should be stopped by the FCC before they air this piece of biased nonjournalism. If they insist on airing it they should also be required to air "Going Upriver" to balance the playing field.

It's hard to understand what role the FCC plays when they continue to allow this type of biased journalism. Please reconsider allowing Sinclair Broadcasting to air "Stolen Honor: Wounds That Never Heal" so close to an election without balancing it with an antiBush or proKerry documentary before the election.
